

Right now, cable companies are established as monopolies. When Judge Green broke apart AT&T, he created 22 monopolies, vs. 1. Cable companies now enjoy that same position. What would happen if cable systems were declared equal access property, where stations like HBO and Showtime could market a form of their broadcasts directly into the market. Consumer goods companies have been doing that for years. Why can't we do it with broadcast.